Simply Surfside!

In all the attempts to get to the essence of Surfside through the various committee meetings, presentations and surveys, a clear single identity remained elusive. With the Grand Beach Hotel set to open, Surfside needed to establish a presence that all present and future private tourism marketing could build upon. If Surfside was not directing the “conversation” about how the town should be portrayed, then the story would be told by private enterprises. The message also had to subtly educate potential visitors on the location of Surfside.

The Tourist Bureau and Board, under the guidelines of the town’s Five Year Tourism Strategic Plan, teamed with Jacober Creative to create a simple message to convey this essence. The town offers a more relaxing getaway than available to the north and south. There remains a quaint quality reminiscent of times gone by but still offering all of the amenities required of a premier destination - without the pretense. It really is about the simple pleasures of life. A safe family environment where one can reconnect to all that really matters. In many ways it is effortless. Special. Unforgettable. Simple. Simply Surfside.
